

Simply being with You, day after day and sharing everything with You, not needing to talk because just being in Your eyes is enough to make me understand... Life is beautiful, it's not about searching far away because happiness is made of an infinity of small things that we should enjoy in the present...