

What warms my heart and makes me happy is when nothing relents, seeing that my ideas come back stronger and more definite.