The day I passed my driving license I was really happy because I had always thought I was useless